This book is dealing with common English word which have different meanings according to the context of the sentence. You may see a word in a certain sentence having a certain meaning, then the same word comes with a different meaning in another sentence. Let me give you an example from my book, the word love, for example, has different meanings, the following sentences show these meanings: the children love their parents very much, the score now is 30-love, in the first sentence, love means to like somebody or something very much, in the second sentence, love is related to tennis sport and it means zero or null or not scoring any point in the game. The book is providing many explanatory example sentences showing how each meaning differs from the other meaning in a simple example sentences.
