Human Planet: Nature's Greatest Human Stories Dale Templar, Brian Leith

An extraordinary companion guide to the next epic natural history documentary series from BBC and Discovery Channel—this time taking the Planet Earth approach to studying humans

In the first natural history documentary series to turn the camera on the human species, Human Planet explains how we have learned to live on every habitat, from our origins in the jungle and our domination of grasslands to the desert, ocean, and rivers; from the challenges of the Arctic mountains to the creation of our own urban environment. But this is also a story about how we have learned to adapt to the most inhospitable landscapes and work in partnership with other animal species. Exploring such diverse experiences as the Bajau sea gypsies, the Korowai tribe of West Papua who live in treehouses, the honey birds in Kenya that lead the Masai people to honey, the men who fish with dolphins in Brazil, and the Papuan tribesmen who mimic the courtship dances of the birds of paradise, this is the remarkable story of our relationship with nature. This series marks the first time the prestigious BBC Natural History Unit has ever filmed the human being, as well as the first time a photographer has accompanied the camera team, providing photographs of extraordinary quality.

Stacie Schneider:

As a college student exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library or to make summary for some book, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their pastime. They just do what the professor want, like asked to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading critically. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring and also can't see colorful pics on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important for you. As we know that on this period, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Human Planet: Nature's Greatest Human Stories can make you sense more interested to read.
